15. Application for Certificate of Eligibility (Please read carefully before application)

[Applicants living outside Japan]

As a general rule, in order for students to stay in Japan for the purpose of study, it is necessary to obtain resident status as a student. Applicants shall apply to the Ministry of Justice, Immigration Bureau, for the Certificate of Eligibility to obtain resident status as a college student after receiving the entrance permit. After the issuance, the applicants themselves need to begin the procedures to obtain visa at a Japanese embassy or consulate in their home country by producing their entrance permit and the Certificate of Eligibility.

◎ There are two ways in the application for obtaining the Certificate of Eligibility as follows:

① Personal application

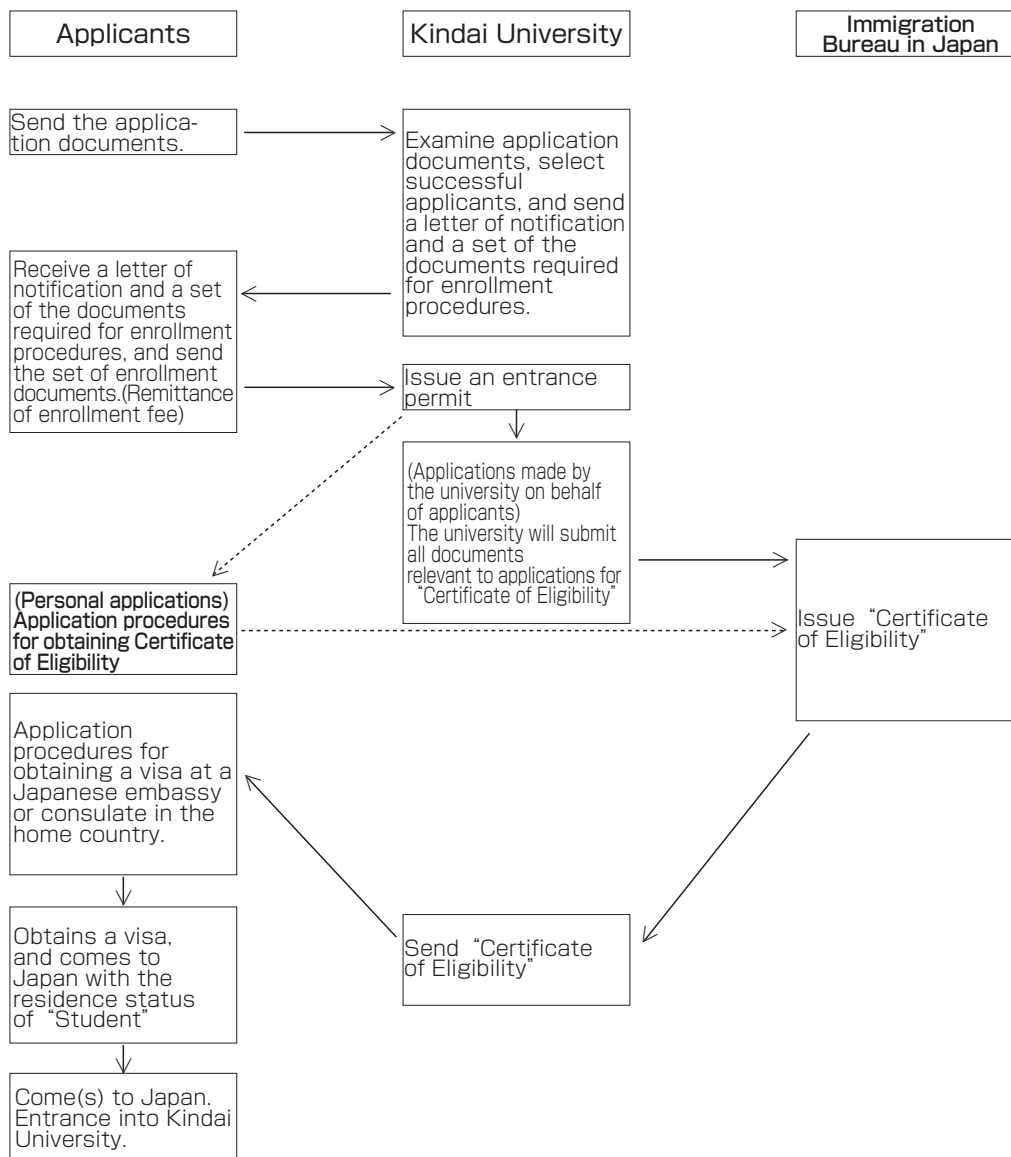

After receiving the entrance permit, the application for the Certificate of Eligibility shall be made to the Immigration Bureau in Japan. This application shall be made by the applicants themselves or their contact person.

② Applications made by Kindai University on behalf of applicants (Excluding the Graduate School of Systems Engineering)

Applicants can request the university to make application to obtain the Certificate of Eligibility on their behalf by submitting all documents relevant to the application for the Certificate of Eligibility at the time of the enrollment procedures. The decision regarding the application on behalf of the applicant will be made by the university. Applicants cannot lodge a protest against the decision and/ or the result of the application. The information about the documents relevant to the application for the Certificate of Eligibility needed at the time of the application made by the university on behalf of the applicants shall be given to successful applicants separately. And the resident status in this case is only as a student. When the Certificate of Eligibility is issued, it shall be sent to you together with their entrance permit. When it is not issued, applicants will be notified.

If there are any questions / doubts about whether you can follow the procedure to obtain the 'Student' status after passing the examination of the university and entering it, please contact the Immigration Bureau in Japan for additional information prior to submitting the application for the university.
